Killing the Calves

—All sorts of excuses are offered for the high price of beef, the most plausible being the alleged demand for veal—"the killing of calves which should be allowed to grow into regular beef." You cannot have beef if you eat it as "veal", but you can have Shredded Wheat Biscuit which contains more real nutriment than beef and costs much less. Shredded wheat biscuit is the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked. Make it your "meat" for ten days and see how much better you feel. Wholesome and strengthening for any meal with milk or cream or in combination with fruits. Made at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Inez Salazar Only Leader

So far as is known, Villa has no leader of consequence with the exception of Inez Salazar, whom he liberated from the Chihuahua penitentiary on his recent raid. Former Villa leaders now exiles along the American border are said to be ready to join him at the first sign of a decisive military success.

Some of the reports of the alleged disaffection within the Carranza administration have gone so far as to express fears for the safety of the first chief himself, and intimations of removal from Mexico City to Queretaro was under circumstances controlled by General Obregon. Carranza representatives here, however, brand that as absurd. Out of the mass of reports which must be judged by what five years of revolution in Mexico have shown American officials of the internal workings of political affairs south of the Rio Grande, there is much which openly is admitted to be disquieting.

Outbreak Kept From Border

In military circles here it is believed that the presence of General Pershing's forces in Mexico has served to keep this new outbreak from the border, and confidence is expressed that the bandit leaders will not risk operations in a region where they might encounter an American force. Some state department officials are understood to share this view.

WOODROW WILSON DAY PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN HERE

Albuquerque to Unite With All Parts of Country in Paying Tribute to President on Saturday, October 28.

The people of Albuquerque, regardless of political belief, are invited to attend a mass meeting at the corner of Second street and Central avenue Saturday evening next, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, the purpose of the meeting being to observe "Woodrow Wilson" day.

Chairman Frank Holt of the democratic central committee is arranging the program. A prominent democrat, to be named today, will read President Wilson's proclamation to a platform to be erected in front of the State National bank. Two other short, snappy speeches, culminating in the reading of the Wilsonian, will be given. The president's proclamation to be read here Saturday is to be identical with the words which the president will deliver personally at Shadow Lawn in the afternoon, when he addresses the New York city and state delegations. The day has been set apart for New York people to make a pilgrimage to Shadow Lawn.

Fifty thousand copies of President Wilson's proclamation have been sent broadcast throughout America. The local democratic organization has received an official copy, which is to be held in confidence until Saturday. Celebrations on "Woodrow Wilson" day are to be held in every city, town, village and hamlet in the country. In New York city alone there will be forty meetings on Saturday evening. Each meeting is to be conducted by the Woodrow Wilson Independent League. In many places the voters will make the day a holiday for themselves and families. In the older communities old fashioned picnics and barbecues will be held in many country districts.

Albuquerque will undoubtedly make a big noise for Wilson Saturday evening. The democratic marching clubs from the University of New Mexico and Albuquerque high school, which made such a big hit in the Woodrow Wilson parade during fair week, will be on the job again with their college yell. The Woodrow Wilson club will also be out in force.

GREAT BRITAIN TO MAKE SECOND AMERICAN LOAN

J. P. Morgan and Company Announces Negotiations Completed for Furnishing England $300,000,000.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE) New York, Oct. 25.—Official announcement was made today by J. P. Morgan & Co. that a new British loan by American bankers, aggregating $300,000,000 had been arranged. It will bear interest at 5 1/2 per cent and is payable in two installments, one of three years and one of five years.

An interesting feature of the loan, according to the announcement, is that because of the easy money market here, it was arranged in advance of the time contemplated by the British government. Another is that it is expected to come for a time at least, a resumption of the enormous inflow of gold to this country, which is said to have caused apprehension in banking circles of late because of danger of inflation and fictitious values. J. P. Morgan mailed for England recently to arrange the loan and still is there.

A new British government loan offering, says the statement, "had not been in contemplation at the present time, but the prevailing ease of money and the difficulty which the banks are having in profitably investing their funds, have led us to indicate to the British government that the present is a favorable time for it to establish additional credits in America, even though such credits may not be immediately required. Accordingly, the British treasury has accepted the views of the American bankers, and has authorized them to proceed."

The British treasury line of late renewed its shipments of gold to this country upon a large scale. This continued influx of the metal has caused some concern in the banking community, and it is believed that the issuance of the proposed loan will tend to cause at least a temporary cessation in gold imports.

Final details have not been arranged, but the notes to be issued will be "fully secured by high grade collateral."

The names of those indicted were withheld pending the serving of warrants for their arrest.

The common disbursement represents an increase of 50 cents a share over the previous payment.

Scrapyard Bombard Military Works

Rome, Oct. 24.—(Via Paris, Oct. 25.)—Italian and French scrapyard have been bombarded by Austrian military works in three places on the west coast of Istria and escaped unscathed, says an official announcement of the Italian war office today. An aerial battle between the French hydroplanes and Austrian seaplanes in which one of the Austrian machines was captured and another fell into a lagoon at Fiume, on the Italian coast near Trieste, also is reported. The Austrian aircraft has been throwing bombs on Fiume.

BOTH CANDIDATES GOOD MEN, SAYS RRA LANDRITH

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE) Scranton, Pa., Oct. 25.—Ira Landrith, the prohibition vice presidential aspirant, declared tonight that Wilson and Hughes were both excellent men and that he did not care who won the presidential race. Landrith attacked their parties, however, declaring that they were responsible for the state of affairs of the country.

"Both of these candidates are excellent gentlemen, and the country won't be in grave danger with either of them in the White House," he said at Wilkes-Barre. "Both are good men, they are like and think alike, and so I know they are all right. I don't care whether Wilson or Hughes wins."

"But their parties are not all right. If you can vote the straight republican ticket, you are a straight republican. If you're a straight republican, then you're a moral acrobat and you should perform for the entertainment of the children."

"I used to be a democrat, but I found I couldn't be a straight democrat and a straight man, so I left the party."

A wave of applause swept over the crowd, but Landrith quickly silenced it with another remark that brought new cheering from other persons, obviously democrats.

"Oh, you republicans need not cheer," he said, "you're as often as we're indecent."

SHARP COMMENTS ON HUGHES' DEAL WITH O'LEARY

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL) New York, Oct. 25.—The exposure of secret political relations between Candidate Hughes and his campaign managers and Jeremiah A. O'Leary and his associate anti-American propaganda continue to form the subject of editorial comment.

The New York Evening Post says tonight that Mr. Hughes' belated attempt to repudiate his hitherto accepted supporters.

"Held back all these months, Mr. Hughes' belated statement has now the air of having been forced from him by the revelations about the O'Leary-Tout-Celt plottings, instead of being the voluntary expression of his indignation at an un-American conspiracy."

Extracts from other editorials follow: Brooklyn Eagle: Candidate Hughes has made a speech free in its emphasis, vague in its definition, but there isn't one word in the wessel collection that will prevent O'Leary and his Irish hyphenates and the German hyphenates from voting for Hughes. They will vote for him, and everybody who has ear drums knows it.

Brooklyn Citizen: The further contribution made to the story of what the German alliance, in connection with the O'Leary attachment, did for Hughes, removes any doubt, if there was any, about the relation in which they stood and are standing to the managers of the republican party.

Albany Times Union: Mr. Hughes had admitted enough to damn him in estimation of any real American who will acquaint himself with his record as it stands.

Baltimore Sun: Mr. Hughes admits that he received Mr. O'Leary and the other members of the committee. He has been in a certain sense under suspicion from the beginning. His speech of acceptance was notable for its attempts to avoid offense both to hyphenates and to political reactionaries.

Rochester (N. Y.) Herald: Every speech of Mr. Hughes given since the date of the O'Leary visit has been carefully worded to avoid offense to men who have assailed and insulted the president for upholding American rights in the controversy with Germany, and the arch-detractor of Mr. Hughes' hyphenate following.

Scranton (Pa.) Times: A clincher as to the truth of these allegations is shown by the fact that the speeches of Mr. Hughes since the date of the alleged interview with O'Leary and his colleagues, members of the committee, are to some extent delivered on the lines, if not couched in the words of the O'Leary gang.

Bridgeport (Conn.) Farmer: Every American will gain from these exposures a new sense of the value of candor and fair play as expressed in the full neutrality of President Wilson.

Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch: It is certain that Mr. Hughes received the representatives of an organization which has placed the interests of a foreign power above the interests of America, and that he gave them some assurances which they regarded as satisfactory. The hour demands a man, and Hughes has been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

The New York Evening Telegram, in its news column tonight says: "Charles Evans Hughes this afternoon refused to affirm or deny the truth of the assertion, that he assured Jeremiah A. O'Leary that he had not read Theodore Roosevelt's 'Let Us Face the Future' when he telegraphed an endorsement of it."

HUGHES APPEALS TO FIRST VOTERS FOR REPUBLICANS

Points to Achievements of Party and Asserts That It Is Still Vibrant With Patriotism.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE) New York, Oct. 25.—Charles E. Hughes tonight told an audience in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, why, in his opinion, the young men of the nation should support the republican ticket at the next election. Five chief reasons were cited in answer to the question: "What sort of country does young America, vibrant with patriotism, desire?"

Mr. Hughes answered the question in part as follows: "First, he wants a country respected throughout the world. He wants a country which respects the dignity of its citizenship."

"Second, young America must desire a country that is prepared for every emergency."

"Third, young America, looking ahead, must desire that which means a more restored, we shall contribute to its maintenance by doing our proper share to secure a practical and effective international organization in the interests of peace."

Government in the Open

"Fourth, young America wants government in the open, by visible constitutional instruments, not by unofficial spokesmen or invisible authority. He also wants a government not sectional but truly national."

"Fifth, young America wants industrial preparedness."

In citing his second reason, Mr. Hughes assailed the administration for lack of preparedness, referred to "manifest defects" in the army reorganization bill, declared that the navy department had "incapable leadership," and touched on a recommendation by Secretary Garrison. In June, 1914, that the regular army be filled to its "full strength," a recommendation, Mr. Hughes said, had been ignored.

"I am informed on competent authority," Mr. Hughes said, "that had there been the addition to the regular army then desired by Secretary Garrison, it would not have been necessary to send our national guard to the border."

What Party Has Done

The republican party, Mr. Hughes asserted, "sprang into being at a time of the deepest national peril."

"Preserving the nation, it not only abolished slavery but emancipated the people from the curse of a destructive sectionalism," said the nominee.

After reciting at length what he termed the achievements of the party, Mr. Hughes asked: "What sort of a country does young America, vibrant with patriotism, desire?"

Saying he would endeavor to answer the question, Mr. Hughes continued:

"He wants a country respected throughout the world. He wants a country which respects the dignity of its citizenship and thus deserves and enjoys the esteem of other nations. He wants no flagrant assertion of power, no policies of aggression, he has no desire for strife. But he desires to have the American flag as a symbol of firmness, of a courageous and indomitable spirit, of an intense love of justice, of great strength, well organized, but never misused, which secures protection to American citizens in their just rights throughout the world."

He must recognize that there is no permanent security for a people which takes counsel of its fears, rather than of its principles. Timidity, weakness and changing purposes.

ness are feeble custodians, either of a nation's honor or of a nation's peace."

Trade Not Protected

"If we do not protect our trade," Mr. Hughes declared, "it will be constantly menaced and shackled."

"If the lives of our citizens are not safeguarded," said Mr. Hughes, "there would be a continued invitation to slaughter by those whose contempt we have evoked. If we do not protect our own, what a mockery it is to talk about the opportunities for American enterprise throughout the world. How can we use these opportunities if our American engineers, merchants, clerks, salesmen, bookkeepers, representing American interests abroad, are to be left without adequate protection in countries of frequent revolutions or unstable government? We are told that the ablest engineers here for the administration that it has abandoned our historic policy of full protection to American citizens abroad. This is a candid interpretation, not of the administration's words, but of its record. Its what authority has our policy been changed? It is a change that has invited a specific rebuke to the country. It is a change of policy which ought to mean a change in administration."

"What sort of country does young America, vibrant with patriotism, desire?"
